

Sherna Armstrong

Vocalist

Born in and raised in Arkansas and living in Dallas, Sherna Armstrong is a southern soul; she's a woman from humble beginnings. Although humble, her journey in the world of music is engulfed in creativity, yet inspirational.

It is said, "The apple doesn't fall too far from the tree" and that's true of Sherna because her parents, were soul-filled gospel singers. They sang in separate groups but as a young girl, the unity of what gospel music was and what gospel music meant, was at the core of her musical experience and her love of music.

In the mid-south, she and other kids toured with her mother's gospel group, The Mid-South Singers; they were called the Mid-South Juniors. "Like so many artists, I started with gospel but it is not my foundation, my foundation is simply, music."

Her mixed-genre solo projects, entitled, "My Soul Music I, II, & III", reflect her unique ability to perform a diverse palette of music equally well. Her self-produced, "My Soul Music" project is captivating and pure raw soul. The songs are not original tracks, but her renditions are like the first time you have heard each and every song. Here is what one of her fans said about it: "Wow what a voice!! Amazing depth and warmth. Very soulful! Cheers dear and greetings from India :) Muby."

She has a band called Sherna Armstrong Band. She currently works as a soloist, section leader, music director, stage director, choral director, and producer of a Lecture with Music Recital Series entitled, "My Soul Music". For media inquiries and bookings, call (214) 556-5986.
